CAN YOU GUESS.

Here's a Chance to Make
Ten Dollars Easy.

All You Have to Do Is to Pick the Winners in the Coming Primary.

Just for the interest attached to a guessing contest and to put a little more interest into the coming campaign for County officers, The News will give its readers a chance to make ten dollars and have a little fun at guessing on the side.

To the person making the first nearest correct guess of the winners in the Democratic Primary Election which will be held in this county on Saturday, June 1st, 1901, The News will present a ten dollar gold piece. The conditions of the contest are simple. Old subscribers and new subscribers who pay $2 on their subscriptions will each be entitled to a guess, and to as many guesses as they pay year's subscription. If no one guesses correctly, the first one who guesses the closest to all the winners will receive the ten dollars.

You intend to pay your subscription anyway, and you may as well pay before the first day of June and have a chance of getting your money back, besides gaining the distinction of knowing more about the political situation than your neighbors.

Each guess will be registered when received as to the exact hour and minute. No one will be permitted to see how any one else has guessed. In guessing only the offices on the ballot are to be considered.

PECULIAR CIRCUMSTANCES.

Two Wives Each Want to Qualify
as Administrator of Dead
Husband's Estate.

The present term of Circuit Court now in session has a case of more than ordinary interest before it. On the 4th day of April, 1889, Oscar H. Lawless and Mamie C. Tune were married in Nicholas county, Kentucky. They lived together some time as man and wife, and a child was born this union which is now ten years of age.

About five years ago Lawless and his wife had a misunderstanding of some kind and he came to Bourbon. After residing in this county a few years, on the 26th of January, 1900, he married Miss Lulu Hipshire, daughter of Lee Hipshire, living just over the Fayette county line near Loretto. Wife No. 1, who is still residing in Nicholas county, through her attorney, Col. Tom Owens, of Carlisle, filed a suit for divorce in the Bourbon Circuit Court, but Lawless died a day or two before the Sheriff called at his house to serve the summons.

Of course, that put a stop to the divorce proceeding, and Mrs. Lawless No. 1 came in and wanted to qualify as Administratrix of her deceased husband's estate. After some delay, Mrs. Lawless No. 1 had the Bourbon County Court to appoint Harmon Stitt Administrator of the Lawless estate. Mr. Stitt was unable to determine which was the legal wife. He therefore filed a petition in the Circuit Court, stating that Lawless was married to Miss Tune in 1889 and to Miss Hipshire in 1900, but that he hadn't knowledge or information sufficient to state whether or not Lawless had ever been divorced from wife No. 1, and he made both of the wives parties-defendants to the action.

Wife No. 1 came forward and set up a claim for herself and daughter to all of the property left by her husband, and Mrs. Lawless No. 2 filed an answer, stating that she and Lawless were married in Covington, and that she did not know that he had ever been married, and asked the Court to require wife No. 1 to say whether or not a divorce had ever been granted or if she had ever been served with a summons citing her to answer to a divorce proceeding.

In the certificate filed by wife No. 1 the name of the decedent appears as "Lawless," while in the certificate filed by wife No. 2 the name appears "Lalls." Wife No. 1 follows the name as written in her certificate, and wife No. 2 follows the name as written in her certificate, except that she spells it "Lalls" instead of one middle L. Yet, that both women had the same husband there is no doubt.

Relatives of wife No. 1, from Nicholas county were with Lawless during his last sickness, had known him all his life and testify that there is no mistake about it. Wife No. 2 admits that Lalls, Lolls and Lawless are all one and the same person, but she simply wants wife No. 1 to say whether or not he had obtained a divorce. She seems confident that her husband was a divorced man, but is unable to find any record of the proceeding either in Bourbon or the Nicholas Courts.

A singular feature is that a man could come from an adjoining county and live within sixteen miles of the people among whom he was born and reared, marry again, and neither wife ever hear of the other.

Relatives of Mrs. Lawless No. 1, residing in the vicinity of Loretto knew that Lawless was married, and although they visited the old neighborhood frequently and had friends from home visit them, it seems that no word was ever carried from wife to the other. Both wife No. 1 and wife No. 2 are members of good families and are themselves above reproach.

STOCK AND STABLE.

STUDY OF VENTILATION OF INTEREST TO STOCKMEN.

Necessity of Cleanliness, Fresh Air and Sunlight to Produce the Best Results—System to be Used at Pan-American Exposition.

The Pan-American Exposition will prove to be of more genuine benefit to those interested in the proper care of live stock than any previous effort in this direction. Stable construction is a question that appeals with great force to every farmer who is anxious to secure good results. The question of expense is a great barrier to the proper building of this necessary. Unfortunately some of the early examples of good stables were built by men of large means, regardless of what the cost might be. As a result practical farmers were slow to take the matter up, as the idea of a properly constructed stable became at once associated with great expense.

One object of Mr. F. A. Converse, who has charge of the live stock and dairy products at the Exposition, is to counteract this erroneous impression.

A properly constructed stable is not necessarily an expensive one. Cleanliness, fresh air and sunlight, with a modulated temperature, may be obtained in a building of ordinary cheap construction if properly arranged.

A light, cheap framework covered with paper which is protected with a sheathing of very common boarding and covered with a good roof makes a very good start. This should stand on ground that is well drained and exposed to the sunlight, but protected from cold winds. The floor should be of cement and carefully designed to facilitate cleanliness in every particular. Double doors, fly screens and dark blinds should be provided and made to fit properly.

A system of ventilation should be provided that will ventilate. Anything will not do. By excluding the cold and the light ordinarily we also shut out the fresh air, without which no animal can thrive. Many stockmen are careful about the quality of the food, though careless about everything else in connection with the stable. In this manner they are protecting their stock in one direction while leaving them exposed in many others.

Stable air is devitalized by passing through the lungs. It is also being contaminated by chemical decomposition of the excrementum as well as the fumes arising from the fermentation of damp bedding, etc.

To thoroughly understand how to properly ventilate a stable it is necessary to study the circulation of air at changing temperatures, which is governed by fixed laws and may be easily understood. Warm air is lighter than cold air. Generally speaking, foul air is heavier than fresh pure air from the outside, even at the same temperature. Starting from this well known principle, ventilation should be arranged accordingly. Fresh air should be let in at the top and the foul air taken out at the bottom.

By experimenting we find if we smoke a cigar in the middle of a room the fresh air in, the other, the King system, draws the foul air out. As Mr. Converse prefers the latter, that is the system he will demonstrate at the Exposition.

It consists of an air stack with a hood, the opening of which is turned away from the direction from which the wind is blowing. To this main air pipe are attached feeders from different parts of the stable. These feeders have slide openings to admit and carry off the foul air from near the floor at the sides of the stable. Fresh air is admitted through a central opening in the roof.

As the draft that is created by the hooded stack is sufficient to draw the bottom air from the stable, fresh air must go down through the central opening to take its place, and a change of air is a certainty. To prevent the mistake from striking the animals too strong a shield is placed under the opening which assists in directing the flow of fresh air along the ceiling. In this manner it mixes with the warm air that naturally rises in the center of the stable, and all is intermingled and diffused.

With a good stable well ventilated and good feed intelligently fed the winter care of stock should be profitable as well as pleasant.

Epidemics have no bad effects on such stock, and a visit from the board of health has no unpleasant consequences for the owner.

PROFUSION OF LIGHT.

More Than Three Hundred Thousand Lamps at Pan-American.

It has been said that the Pan-American Exposition will be a Rainbow City by day and City of Light by night, and if this be true it should prove the most beautiful sight of its kind ever created for the delectation of the human vision.

Much has been written about the illuminations of the Exposition, but the public is scarcely aware of the magnitude of the scene which is to be created by the use of incandescent lights in such generous profusion about the main court of the Exposition and the buildings immediately surrounding it. When one says that 300,000 of these lights are to be used, the figures look large, but they are nevertheless true. Nor does this include all the lights that are to be used in the general illumination of the Exposition, for on the Midway several concessions, such as the Thompson Aerocycle, Streets of Mexico and some others will use as many as 2,000 lights each. In the buildings and about the border of the grounds will be arc lights, while incandescent lamps will also be used by many individual exhibitors. Thus the figures 300,000 will be considerably increased. The illumination of the Electric Tower is going to be not only astonishing and novel, but truly artistic.

In any new and prominent field like this the United States, with its wealth of active inventive minds, is expected to take the lead. That this country does lead will be demonstrated by the exhibit made at the Pan-American Exposition.

the smoke goes first to the ceiling, where it spreads in every direction until it reaches the side walls, when it will descend.

WHILE on a business trip to Winchester last Wednesday, the editor of the News called on Mr. R. P. Dow, Jr., of the Dow-Hayden Grocery Company, and was shown through the establishment. The firm has an elegant and substantial three-story brick building, which is packed from cellar to roof with a stock which would credit to a big city wholesale house. Joe Riden, of this city, is clerk for the firm. A peculiar feature of the business done by the firm is the immense sale of Jamaica Ginger and other extracts to residents of the mountain counties, where it is used in lieu of whisky, since the extreme activity of the Revenue officials has caused a discontinuance of the moonshine variety.

Letter From Dr. Roberts.

MONACO, Feb., 1901.

The most beautiful spot on the famous Riviera is without question Monaco, the Capital of the Miniature principality. With wild mountainous scenery in the background and the blue waters of the Mediterranean in the foreground, between which is centered all that could be done by art and nature to bring this spot to its present state of loveliness. Its beautiful streets like marble, parks and gardens of superb beauty, glittering casinos, arched hotels, the olive, orange and lemon groves all tend to render this place an earthly paradise. Here is the great modern resort of fashion and glitzy vice. Here gambling is strictly forbidden, but only a step away is the far famous Casino of Monte Carlo, which is situated on the hill above the small Bay of Monaco. Here it is said is concentrated more misery than in any other place in this wide world. As you enter the Casino, how grand and luxurious everything looks—glittering gold and flashing mirrors greet you at every turn. By presenting your card you are admitted to the gambling saloon. None of the citizens of Monaco are allowed to visit the Casino. Having entered the room we find the roulette tables, one on either side, passing into the Grand Salon we find four roulette tables. In the third saloon are two tables for Trente-et-quatre. The three saloons form, as it were, one large one. The floors are of highly polished oak and the roof is beautifully decorated by polished wood and gilt.

Here are assembled hundreds of people, yet everything is perfectly quiet, except the croppers' voices as they calmly call out the result of the game and with this the click of gold! Here you see old gray-haired men and fair young girls playing—now winning, now losing. It is a study to watch the faces of those seated there. Perhaps all their world's wealth at stake. If they win, life and misery is prolonged; if they lose, suicide is their reward. I talked with a young man who had been playing off and on, for ten years, and he said once you have played at Monte Carlo you never quit. You may leave and cross the seas, but there is that strange fascination that brings you back. He said that this was the experience of all who played. As the bank makes twenty million francs clear every year, it is easy to see who wins.

And the man who can "break the bank of Monte Carlo" does not live. The roulette tables are about three times as long as wide, and are divided into three divisions, the middle part for the bank and roulette, the two ends containing the spaces and numbers on which are placed the stakes of the players. The tables are covered by a green baize cloth, the spaces are numbered and are marked by white lines and figures. The two ends of the table are alike, and have the following chance, on any of which the players may place their stakes—zero and 36 number, red, black, pair, impair, passe, manque. In the center of the table is the roulette, worked on a pivot. In the roulette are thirty-six small compartments, marked alternately—red and black—and contain the zero and 36 numbers in white. The roulette is set in motion by one of the croupiers, who takes hold of one of the four bars and giving it a turn, the four bars being attached to the top of the pivot. As soon as the roulette is started the croupiers start a small ivory ball in the opposite direction to which the roulette is going. This ball continues running till the roulette slackens its pace, then the ball rolls into one of the small compartments and this decides the winning number, and other chances of the roulette.

THE News earnestly urges every citizen of Paris and Bourbon county to do all in their power to advance the good work already inaugurated by the Paris Commercial Club. There is not a citizen of the town who will not benefit, more or less, by it. The building of electric railroads to connect us with our neighboring small towns will be of inestimable value. It will only require a small amount of inducement on the part of those having the matter in charge to induce men of capital to invest in the way of manufactures.

Paris has every facility in the way of water location, shipping facilities, etc., and all that is necessary is to bring it to the attention of those who have capital to invest. Come to the next meeting of the Commercial Club next Monday night, and do all in your power to start the boom which Paris should have had several years since only for the backwardness of its citizens.

City Gives $100 to Cloverport.

Mayor Perry yesterday received a communication from the relief committee of the city of Cloverport, which was recently almost completely destroyed by fire, requesting financial aid. Every business house in the city except one was destroyed, and the merchants lost everything. The communication stated that they had enough on hand to feed the destitute for only a short time, and that they were compelled to appeal to the outside world for aid.

The city decided to contribute one hundred dollars, and that amount was sent immediately.

Rare Bargains in Canned Goods.

L. Saoshin & Co., announce that on account of being overstocked with the following articles, they have decided to close them out at ruinous prices. In the celebrated "Nabob" brand of canned goods, the regular price of which is 30 cents per can, they are offering them at these prices:

Serious Accident.

Arthur A. Crick, foreman of the Cumberland Telephone Company, in this city, met with an accident yesterday which will incapacitate him for work for several weeks. While superintending the pulling down of some old poles on the streets, a large 45-foot pole fell on him breaking the crest of his hip bone. He was attended by Drs. Kenney and Sweeney, and is doing as well as could be expected, although suffering great pain.

"Private John Allen"

One of the prettiest and most completely mounted plays ever produced at the Grand Opera House in this city, was C. B. Hanford's production of "Private John Allen" last Tuesday night. It was presented before a small audience, but one which made up for lack of numbers by their enthusiasm. At the end of the third act Mr. Hanford received four curtain calls, something unprecedented in the history of the house. It was unanimously voted by those present to be the best play of the season.

A YANKEE SEA KING.

CAPTAIN SLOCUM SAILED AROUND THE WORLD IN A SLOOP.

The Bold Navigator and His Famous Craft, the Spray, Will Be at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo Next Summer.

The nautical adventures of the Vikings of old, which have been celebrated in song and story, are overshadowed in importance by the remarkable voyage of Captain Joshua Slocum around the world in a sloop 36 feet 9 inches in length over all and nine tons net burden. The solitary Yankee sea king cruised 46,000 miles on all the oceans, ten times the distance ever claimed for a Viking ship. It was the first and only successful attempt to circumnavigate the globe alone in a small boat. The extraordinary character of the voyage can only be gauged by those who have devoted to pay his respects to President Kruger of the Boer Republic. While he was enroute, the Spanish-American war broke out, and his first intimation of the fact was gleaned from the United States cruiser Oregon, which signaled, "Are there any Spanish men-of-war about?" Captain Slocum knew of none being in that locality. He flippanantly replied, "No, but let us keep together for mutual protection!"

It was on June 27, 1898, that the Spray cast anchor at the moorings she had left on her voyage around the globe.

To see the skipper and the craft of globe circling celebrity will be a treat which all Exposition visitors will want to enjoy.

(To be at the Pan-American exposition.)

their lives to sailing the seas and know their varying moods, and they one and all regard it as a most remarkable exploit.

Captain Slocum and the boat in which he made his around the world voyage will be at the Pan-American Exposition next summer. The craft will ride upon the waters of the beautiful Park Lake, where it may be viewed or boarded by Exposition visitors. That it will prove to be a great attraction goes without saying.

The intrepid Yankee globe circler is a slender man, not above the medium height and is somewhat bald, but there is little gray in the fringe of surviving hair or in his full beard. He has blue eyes, which are frank and direct. He possesses a dry humor which is very amusing. That he is daring and plucky is attested by his long and solitary trip.

The boat in which Captain Slocum made his voyage is named the Spray. It was originally a fishing boat, supposed to be a century old, and when it came into Captain Slocum's possession was in process of decay. Undaunted, he rebuilt it upon the original lines, and the splendid manner in which it behaved on the long tour is sufficient evidence that he builded well.

Captain Slocum sailed from Boston on April 24, 1895, and his voyage consumed 3 years and 2 months, coming to a close during the Spanish-American war. In lieu of a chronometer he had an old tin clock, but he was rarely at fault in his longitude. The voyage was attended with many unusual incidents. The first occurred after the Spray had left her first port of call, the Azores. The Captain had eaten freely of plums and a native cheese, and they did not agree with him. He was attacked with stomachic cramps. He double reefed the mainsail and with a full jib put the sloop on her course, lashed the wheel and went below to the cabin, where he rolled in agony on the floor. Becoming delirious, he imagined that a strange man came on board, announced himself as "one of Columbus' crew" and guided the craft. A blow came up, and the Spray ran like a deer. When the Captain regained his full senses and was able to go on deck, she was holding true to her course. She had made 90 miles during the night in the rough sea.

The Spray went through the very dangerous Straits of Magellan, whose shores are strewn with wrecks and inhabited by pirates, without accident, but after weeks consumed in the passage was driven by a furious gale southward and thence eastward around Cape Horn, necessitating a second passage of the Straits.

Captain Slocum was received at every landing place with the most cordial hospitality, for his name was known the world around among seafaring men, and the cable news of his progress went before him. In Samoa Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson visited him. In Tasmania Lord Hampden was a caller. At the Cape Sir Alfred Milner saw him. A pass over the Cape railways permitted the skipper have a windmill being employed to do any work was in Alexandria 150 B. C., when an invention driven by wind power was employed to operate a musical instrument. As even this must have been the product of evolution it leaves us entirely in the dark as to the actual origin. However, we know that windmills were employed in useful labor in many parts of Europe long before Columbus discovered America.

These old windmills were quaint affairs. Some of them floated on water and were turned by hand to meet the vagaries of the wind. A later development was built on a post and still later the roof of the building was pivoted, which allowed the building itself to remain stationary.

It remained for the engineers of the nineteenth century to construct a wind engine that was at once simple, useful and practical. The amount of power developed and usefully applied by this time honored invention amounts in the aggregate to hundreds of thousands of horsepower.

At the Pan-American Exposition a group of windmills will be gathered together and planted in a corner of the grounds, where they will be required to pump water and in other ways demonstrate their usefulness. These will comprise many different types, showing the evolution of the engine from the old fashioned four sail pattern down to the ordinary multitudinous sprocket plan in which the sail area is automatically adjusted to the wind pressure and the speed is regulated by a governor. Some of these engines will develop a tremendous power, while others are simply devised as a cheap and reliable means of working a farmer's pump.

Experiments extending over a period of years have been conducted for the purpose of generating electricity by this means. Developments along these lines so far have not been entirely satisfactory, though indications point to ultimate success. The difficulties met with are principally owing to the inconsistency of the wind, which must be overcome by storing up the energy of the gale to be given off as required. As the development of electricity by battery retards this important achievement we await with impatience the improvements in this direction that we know ought to be made. The time will undoubtedly come when electric lighting will be in fact the electric light plant in a village in Scotland is now partially operated by a wind wheel which is built on the horizontal principal.

To those unfamiliar with the production of the wind engine as used at the present time a visit to this section of the Exposition will be a revelation. Hitherto this early invention has been used merely to the farmer and stockman. Possibilities in the immediate future point to a much wider and more extended usefulness when power from the source will be built up in storage batteries and shipped to distant points to be used in the mechanic arts.

THE INAUGURATION OATH.

Verbes of the Bible Kissed by Different Presidents.

"It has been customary at inaugurations," says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record, "for the president or some friend to select the chapter at which he shall press his lips, passages that are particularly appropriate being chosen. That selected by Mr. McKinley to kiss when he took the inaugural oath in 1897 was unusually appropriate. It read:

"Give me new wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people, for who can judge this people, that is so great."

"President McKinley not only selected this passage from the holy Scriptures because of its remarkable appropriateness, but in his inaugural address twice, at the beginning and the end, acknowledged divine sovereignty and invoked the guidance of Omnipotent power.

"The verse that General Grant kissed was equally appropriate and is found in the eleventh chapter of Isaiah, as follows:

"And the spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and the fear of the Lord. And shall make him of quick understanding in the fear of the Lord, and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes nor approve after the hearing of his ears."

The verse that President Hayes kissed was accidental and proved to be prophetic:

"His enemies encompassed him like bees, but he would not destroy them."

"President Arthur and President Cleveland did not make any selection, and the passages they kissed are unknown. Mr. Cleveland took the oath at both inaugurations upon a little red Bible which was given him by his mother when he was a boy."

Female Legislative Clerks.

The introduction in the Montana house of a resolution for the appointment of two more women as clerks gave rise to an interesting discussion the other day. One member asserted that there were already 25 women clerks, who did little but sit around the committee rooms all day, reading novels or doing fancy work and earning $5 a day. Another member told of a struggle he had to persuade one out of a bevy of 15 of these clerks to do a little work for him on a typewriter.

Notice.

To Policy Holders in Old Line Companies: Beware of the confidence game played by the pious Insurance Agent, who wants to do you the favor of switching you from your company to his. All companies write numerous plans of insurance and every plan costs a different price. You get value received for any plan you buy, from any Old Line Company. When the confidence man shows you a plan differing from the one you have, which is part of the game, and should you prefer this particular plan write to the Agent or Company who insured you and get it, and thereby save what you paid. Don't be an easy mark. There are millions of dollars lost each year by policy holders being duped by confidence men.

POLES MAY RISE AGAIN.

Warsaw Said to Be a Volcano Which May Burst Out Any Time.

The Berliner Correspondenz, which, after a series of articles showing that an uprising in German Poland was inevitable this spring, suddenly became silent, has again renewed its attacks, this time dealing with statistics. In the meantime the police have been making elaborate investigations, particularly in the province of West Prussia, and, although many arrests have been made, many books and papers in the Polish language have been confiscated. The Correspondenz is astonished that the authorities in Russian Poland have not heeded their warning, for, according to this organ, Warsaw is nurturing a volcano which at any moment may set all central Europe aflame. The local court of Strassburg, in West Prussia, has ordered the confiscation of a photograph of which the following is part of the official description:

"The picture represents Christ sitting under the cross and lovingly consoling a woman dressed in black and laden with chains, who is kneeling before him. The flags lying beside the figure of Christ contain the dates of the three partitions of Poland, 1772, 1793 and 1795. The dates 1794, 1830, 1848 and 1863, which are inscribed in large figures edged with white on the border of the woman's skirt, refer to the four great Polish rebellions. The date May 3, 1791, is that of a promise of the Polish constitution, etc. The legend, in Polish, 'The moment of redemption is not yet come,' also figures in the picture."

According to the most recent anti-Poles article in the Correspondenz, Poles have not only increased in numbers in the eastern provinces of Prussia, which once formed part of the Polish kingdom, but have established large Polish colonies in Silesia and in the west of Prussia. It declares that between 1800 and 1868 the Polish speaking population of Westphalia increased from 27,000 to 150,000, that of the Rhine provinces from 6,000 to 23,000 and that of Silesia from 994,000 to 1,023,000. The census of 1890 gave 3,000,000 as the number of Prussian subjects who spoke Polish as their native language, while the recent census will probably show a great increase over this number. On the other hand, the paper points out that the German colonies in the Polish districts have gradually declined in strength and energy and that, in many towns the administration of affairs is entirely in the hands of the Poles, who are thus able to devote the local funds to defraying the expense of teaching the Polish language in schools, which, designated as "private," are in reality supported by the community. The paper places the number of Polish Nationalists at over 100,000, while the Nationalists have increased in the last ten years from 300 to 904.

FOREWARNED, FOREARMED.

The liability to disease is greatly lessened when the blood is in good condition, and the circulation healthy and vigorous. For then all refuse matter is promptly carried out of the system; otherwise it would rapidly accumulate—fermentation would take place, the blood become polluted and the constitution so weakened that a simple malady might result seriously.

A healthy, active circulation means good digestion and strong, healthy nerves.

As a blood purifier and tonic S. S. S. has no equal. It is the safest and best remedy for old people and children because it contains no minerals, but is made exclusively of roots and herbs.

No other remedy so thoroughly and effectually cleanses the blood of impurities. At the same time it builds up the weak and debilitated, and renovates the entire system. It cures permanently all manner of blood and skin troubles.

Mr. E. E. Kelly, of Urbana, O., writes: "I had eczema on my hands and face for five years. It would break out in little white pustules, crusts would form and drop off, leaving the skin red and inflamed. I used all the medical aids and salves without benefit. S. S. S. cured me, and my skin is as clear and smooth as any one's."

Mrs. Henry Siegfried, of Cape May, N. J., writes: "I used two bottles of S. S. S. cured her of Cancer of the breast. Doctors and friends thought her case hopeless."

Richard T. Gardner, Florence, S. C., suffered for years with the blood condition of S. S. S. put his blood in good condition and the boils disappeared.

FOREWARNED, FOREARMED.

The liability to disease is greatly lessened when the blood is in good condition, and the circulation healthy and vigorous. For then all refuse matter is promptly carried out of the system; otherwise it would rapidly accumulate—fermentation would take place, the blood become polluted and the constitution so weakened that a simple malady might result seriously.

A healthy, active circulation means good digestion and strong, healthy nerves.

As a blood purifier and tonic S. S. S. has no equal. It is the safest and best remedy for old people and children because it contains no minerals, but is made exclusively of roots and herbs.

No other remedy so thoroughly and effectually cleanses the blood of impurities. At the same time it builds up the weak and debilitated, and renovates the entire system. It cures permanently all manner of blood and skin troubles.

Mr. E. E. Kelly, of Urbana, O., writes: "I had eczema on my hands and face for five years. It would break out in little white pustules, crusts would form and drop off, leaving the skin red and inflamed. I used all the medical aids and salves without benefit. S. S. S. cured me, and my skin is as clear and smooth as any one's."

Mrs. Henry Siegfried, of Cape May, N. J., writes: "I used two bottles of S. S. S. cured her of Cancer of the breast. Doctors and friends thought her case hopeless."

Richard T. Gardner, Florence, S. C., suffered for years with the blood condition of S. S. S. put his blood in good condition and the boils disappeared.

Send for a free bottle of S. S. S. and write our physicians about your case. Medical advice free.

See that you get the original Dr. Witt's Blood Purifier. Beware when you ask for it. The genuine is a certain cure for piles, sore and skin diseases. W. T. Brooks.

Their promptness and their pleasant effects make Dr. Witt's Little Early Risers most popular little pills wherever they are known. They are simply prepared for liver and bowel troubles. W. T. Brooks.

Counterfeits of Dr. Witt's Little Early Risers are liable to cause blood poisoning. Leave the name alone. The original has the name Dr. Witt's upon the box and wrapper. It is a harmless and healing salve for skin diseases. Unqualified for pills. W. T. Brooks.

Like Oliver Twist, children ask for more when given One Minute Constipation Cure. Mothers endorse it highly for its quick cures all constipation and even throat and lung troubles. It is a specific for grippe and asthma and has long been a well known remedy for whooping cough. W. T. Brooks.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.
